

---

major hot spot

Posted by maobao - 2009/05/11 13:37

---

I never have seen anything grow this fast and ugly even on Labs (when I had them); naturally with unemployment.....we're stressed highly to deal with my regular vet right now and more bills.

This Shar-pei has also been prone in the summer in his "arm pits" but nothing like this on his side. ACK!

Then again also; in 4 years GA/TN has also not had this much darn rain since May 1 and more to come.

I can clip around the major "issue" but any OTC suggestions? Eats a premium grain free kibble; appetite is good; I actually have numbed this up with Marcaine via injection: so he feels little need to chew at it..

Any other brilliant suggestions?

Only Shar-pei in all these years, I've had such a horrid sudden problem with. Well any, breed any dog or mutt. :(

=====

Re:major hot spot

Posted by Dian - 2009/05/15 00:08

---

Clip around the area as you said. I use a product that I have had a hard time finding of late. Furall spray.

<http://www.marystack.com/aaaaaaably.html>

It works GREAT. Cures most wounds in a day for my dogs.

Di

=====

Re:major hot spot

Posted by maobao - 2009/11/14 17:31

---

I was late in checking back on this; actually cured it with listerine mouth wash in a spray bottle.

=====